ENOUGH WITH WALLS BORDERS AND RACISM

Migrants keep dying in the Mediterranean sea and all around Europe the episodes of racism are multiplying.

Death and racism seem to be the destiny of migrants who are implementing their inalienable right: that of running away from countries crossed by wars, economic and environmental crisis or just seeking a different life or a different future. The right to the freedom of movement is denied and repressed starting from the main European institutions introducing discriminating divisions between asylum seekers and economic migrants, when a recognised and granted possibility of entering European countries is totally lacking. They say that Europe is divided about the new migrations. That is just partially true. There is no division in making borders and controls more and more external, no division in increasing deportations, in impeding reunifications, in making deals with authoritarian regimes like Turkey and in financing governments which are stopping the migrants from moving.

The European states are divided on how to realise these policies. There aren't better or worse European Governments. It's enough to look at the real numbers of the asylum requests rejections in Germany, at the use of the police against migrants in France and at the way migrants are seen just like exchanging merchandise with other countries from the Italian government. The Italian government is using the migrants emergency to obtain economical advantages at a European level showing the worse side of institutional racism. Migrants coming on the Italian territory must accept everything: to be registered, to work for free in companies or in public institutions with the mirage of a permit of stay which in the majority of cases is denied.

The last datas of 2016 about the Commission in Brescia (which decides on the asylum requests of Brescia, Mantova and Cremona) rejected 1810 requests on 2548 (71%). A percentage which is defenently superior to the national one (58%). One more time, after Sanatoria of 2012, Brescia is the city with the highest number of rejections and denials. All this is not accidental. It's the concrete evidence of an institutional racism which is more and more present and diffused.

The threat of living in illegality becomes always more real. The Italian laws about immigration, asylum, work, and the territorial Commission became illegality and precarity factories. The welcoming system became a new place of business on the skin of migrants and it's working in a selective way substituting the former percentagings given by the State laws on immigration and "decreto flussi". The migrants' right to move it's also showing the will not to be considered only bodies and arms to help (Sorting centers, CAS, Hotspots, camps and barracks) or just like simple victims to assist with emergency or humanitarian operations, which most of the times are just helping the business of entrepreneurs, out from any kind of protagonism and self-determination project.

WORK AND DOCUMENTS VALID (maybe) FOR WORKING ACTIVITY

From september 2015, among the many worrying news, there's good news for the asylum seekers:

after 60 days from the registration of the request (delivering of the C3 form) they can receive a temporary permit of stay valid for working activity ("attività lavorativa").

This way it should be possible to look for a job, even if precarious and underpaid (today nobody can run away from voucher, stages and forced volunteering). It would mean to leave behind the pocket money and start building an income autonomy and to realise the first steps towards that integration demanded from everyone.

Unfortunately reality is very different. To work, not only a document is needed, but also a FISCAL CODE with NUMBERS and LETTERS. Any employer has to send a "compulsory communication" to Provincia (territory district authority) to activate a contract (or even just an internship), in this communication they need to send the personal datas of the employed person, resident datas and fiscal code. Without this the system is not accepting the request and the work activity cannot start.

Questura di Brescia gives to asylum seekers a fiscal code which is temporary and, biggest problem, it's made only by numbers.

What is that implying? Until last May a difficult path was starting with an uncertain result: the attempt of going to Agenzia delle Entrate asking a temporary code with letters and numbers. If you were lucky you could find an available operator who was giving it because nothing was forbidding it. But normally you were sent to Questura which couldn't answer a different way. In the best cases, if there weren't too many requests or if the request was supported by some insisting operator, you could also hope to obtain an answer, otherwise you were forced to an undefined waiting linked to a choice of the Ministry of Interior, or Prefettura. A real fortune wheel that Questura decided to stop. From this summer on the temporary document given by Questura an indication is written: "Don't go to Agenzia Delle Entrate for the release of the Fiscal Code".

At this point the migrant is forced to keep his code with numbers with all its restrictions.

So what can they do? Hoping that sooner or later it will be valid to make a contract? Or resign from the beginning and working illegally? It wouldn't be reasonable to ask for the document that are given to be usable at least? It would be simple, it's clear, but as far as it seems, it's way more useful to keep the migrants in a limbo without rights, without autonomy and consequently always dependent from the decisions of other people, ready to be exploited.

WHO ARE WE?

CROSS-POINT is a project born with crossing of subjects living and animating the social fabric of the city. To confirm that migration is not a crime but a path to change a person's life in the world. To strongly oppose to racist laws, to documents linked to working contract, to a racist culture and to war among poor people.
